Personal advice takes into consideration the Clients' financial objectives, situation, and needs. Clients who require personal advice should consult a qualified independent financial advisor. When a Client speaks with Decode Capital, they are dealing with a Decode Capital representative. Decode Capital is therefore responsible to the Client for any general financial advice given by the Decode Capital representative. Decode Capital will therefore never provide you with a Statement of Advice.

4.2 Who is responsible for the financial services provided?

Decode Capital recognises the importance of ensuring that Clients have confidence in the way we handle their personal information and that it is kept private. Decode Capital has procedures in place which include the secure storage of your personal information, both physically and electronically. All personal information that Decode Capital collects will be treated in accordance with Decode Capital's Privacy Policy and Australian Privacy Principles. 7 Fees and Charges

7.1 What are the fees, costs, and charges for Decode Capital's services?

Decode Capital does not charge Clients for general information and advice provided to Clients regarding our products. Decode Capital provides Margin Foreign Exchange and CFDs execution services. We are entitled to the revenues generated as a result of the provision of these services.

This FSG only contains a general summary of the common fees, costs and charges associated with doing business with Decode Capital. Please refer to the PDS for more details and specific amounts. All fees, costs, and charges are subject to change from time to time. Fees and charges that you pay in connection with a Decode Capital product will be reflected on your statement.

Decode Capital may charge its Clients fees or commissions for opening/holding/closing positions on Margin FX and CFD products. The calculation of the price to be paid (or the payout to be received) for products offered by Decode Capital, at the time the contract is closed (either purchased or sold), will be based on Decode Capital's best estimate of market prices and the expected level of interest rates, implied volatilities and other market conditions during the life of the financial contract.

In addition, being a market maker, Decode Capital may charge a bid/ask spread in respect of its CFD products, which will also affect the profits or losses you make when dealing in derivatives with Decode Capital. The calculation will include a “spread” in favour of Decode Capital, consisting of both a “bid” and “ask” prices. Decode Capital acts as a market-maker and not a broker and derives its income from the bid-ask spreads that are embedded in the currency rates. This spread is not an additional charge or fee payable by you. We add an amount to the market ask price when you open a Long Margin FX Contract position and subtract an amount from the market bid price when you open a Short Margin FX position.

When Clients enter a contract with Decode Capital, they will be required to pay an “initial margin” and may be required to pay additional margins in the event of adverse market movements against your position to keep your position open. Such payments are not costs but are funds required by Decode Capital to cover our risk and as security for the Client’s obligations. The margin amounts are payable into the Decode Capital Client trust account and are held, used and withdrawn in accordance with the Corporations Act requirements as well as our agreed terms and conditions set forth in our PDS, TMD and the Client Agreement. All interest that may accrue on the Client trust account is kept by Decode Capital.

7.1.1 Payment of Margin

This is the initial margin requirement that is required to be in your account to open a trading position. The amount required to be in your account may be expressed as a percentage of the contract value or may be expressed as a multiple of the number of contracts. Please note that pertaining to the ASIC Corporations (Product Intervention Order—Contracts for Difference) Instrument 2020/986, there are new initial margin requirements. The margin requirements vary from market to market and are listed under the market information sheet on our website and are also available upon request from our staff.

7.1.2 Margin adjustments

For as long as a position is open, you are required to keep sufficient money in your account to maintain your position. This is the variable margin requirement against adverse price movement of your position.

7.1.3 Financing Charges on Margin FX, Index, and Metal CFDs

If you hold a long Margin FX, or index or metal CFD overnight Decode Capital may charge you interest for the total notional value of the position at the relevant financing rate. The rate is determined by adding a percentage rate for the particular type of CFD, to a country specific relevant interest rate which is determined by Decode Capital. End of business days and overnight times are determined by Decode Capital. Financing charges are debited from Client accounts on a daily basis.

7.1.4 Rollover Charges/Benefits on Margin FX, CFDs and Precious Metal CFDs

Margin FX, CFDs and Precious Metals CFDs that are held “overnight” (after the designated end of trading day) may incur a rollover charge/benefit. The rollover charge is calculated according to the applicable rate in the interbank market, the size of the position, the duration of the rollover period, the spread, and the currency pair. End of business day and overnight times are determined by Decode Capital. Rollover charges are debited/credited to Client accounts on a daily basis.

7.1.5 Administration Fees

An administration fee of AUD$50 including GST per calendar month may be charged to Client accounts. The administration fee is debited on a monthly basis. You will not have to pay an administration fee for any given month if the total commission you incur for that month is AUD$50 or greater.

7.1.6 Administrative Charges

Decode Capital may also charge the administrative service charges in respect to using Decode Capital’s financial services and products – All charges are inclusive of GST (where applicable). Please refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for detail of fees.

7.2 How are our employees compensated?

Decode Capital employees are paid a base salary while introducing brokers or authorised representatives who introduce business to Decode Capital may receive “rebates” or commissions on introduced Clients’ trading activity, subject to compliance with the requirements of the Corporations Act relating to conflicted remuneration. Rebates are paid on a monthly basis or as agreed. Rebates are based on a negotiated figure multiplied by the number of round-turn transactions completed by Clients. “Round-turn” transactions are defined as positions opened and closed within a certain time frame, typically one calendar month. In some cases, rebates are based on a percentage of the actual spread earned by the company. Rebates are paid to introductory brokers and authorised representatives monthly, with quarterly and annual adjustments where necessary. Payments will be made in accordance with the Corporations Act and ASIC Regulatory Guides, to the extent permitted by law.

7.3 Will anyone be paid for referring me to Decode Capital?

Decode Capital may pay an introductory fee or commission, or we may provide other benefits to any person for referring customers to us in connection with the services and products to which this FSG relates, and these will be disclosed as required by law. Again, payment will be subject to compliance with the requirements of the Corporations Act and ASIC Regulatory Guides.

The amount of fees paid to introducing brokers and/or referrers is negotiated on an individual basis and is typically based on a sliding scale, which takes into account:

- ❖ The number of Clients the introducing broker/referrer has introduced to Decode Capital.
- ❖ The number of round-turn transactions completed by the Client introduced to Decode Capital.

If any amount we pay any third parties is considered “conflicted remuneration” under the Corporations Act (2001) then it will only be made if it is exempt or permitted, and you are entitled to receive full details regarding such payment upon written request.

However, if an amount, which may be calculated by reference to the commission or spread on our products acquired by you, may be paid to third parties or employees without your express consent where such payment is not deemed “conflicted remuneration” under the Corporations Act 2001, any such payment will be paid by us and not by you.

If you are unsure whether these arrangements apply to you, please contact the referring third party or us.

8. Making a complaint

We have an internal dispute resolution process in place to quickly and fairly resolve any complaints or concerns you may have. Any complaints or concerns should be directed to the Complaints Officer (by telephone, facsimile or letter) at the address and telephone/fax numbers
